

The Colors of Christmas

"There are many colors associated with Christmas that can help us remember Jesus' birth, death, and resurrection."

Christmas is all about the birth of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. There are many Christmas traditions, and, if we're not careful, these traditions can pull us away from what's most important. But Christmas traditions can actually help us to focus on Jesus too! There are many colors associated with Christmas that can help us remember Jesus' birth, death, and resurrection. Red and green are probably the most common Christmas colors. Red can help us to remember Jesus' blood and the incredible sacrifice that He made for us, and green (like evergreen trees that stay green all year) can help us to remember the eternal life that we can have through Jesus. And that's just a couple of Christmas colors; there are many more! With just a little bit of effort, all the colors of Christmas can help us to turn our attention to Jesus Christ.
